ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The Historian thanks all of you who cooperated in the gathering of the data of this genealogy.

Without the interest of members of the different branches of our family, who so kindly and willingly furnished information of their lines, this book would not have been possible.

To other interested friends who have made available their records pertaining to the South Jersey Mickels I am also indebted.

—Samuel L. Mickel

FOREWORD

One Saturday afternoon Clement E. Mickel, of Aldine, N.J. held a family gathering by his mill-pond. It was so successful that it was decided to hold another one the following year. For fourteen years thereafter, a reunion was held at the same mill-pond. A change in ownership meant a change in site and from that time the reunion has been held at various places.

It is to Clement Mickel's devotion and love of family that we of today have been given a tradition that should never fail. It can fail only through our own neglect to grasp and hold fast to that intangibleness that he held dear to his heart, and especially so when on September 15, 1928, he called the Mickel family together.

At the reunion held in 1937 and on the site of "Clem Mickel's Millpond," Samuel L. Mickel of Bridegton, N.J., proposed the idea of starting a family genealogy. He was appointed historian and has been accumulating data since that time.

Gathering this information required many visits to individual descendants, where much material has been preserved in family Bibles. Trips to cemeteries also provided missing and/or accurate dates; archives at Trenton, N. J. failed to provide much information, but through newspaper publicity unexpected and welcome letters were received. These, however, touched on other Mickel settlers in Pennsylvania, and New York. Nowhere to date have we been able to "tie" the three branches together.

In 1682, the first Mickle, Archibald, an Irish Quaker, came to America, the same year that William Penn arrived, and only 62 years after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock. The name of Mickle appears on the records of what is now Gloucester County, as early as 1709. Therefore the Mickel family is one of the very first families of America. We of the South Jersey Mickels, use the spelling of the name with the "el" while the Pennsylvania and New York branches use the "le" version. Yet it is felt by all the compilers of their own histories that there is a connection, and it is hoped that some day in the future the connection can be definitely made.

In the book, "Notes on Old Gloucester County" by Frank H. Stewart printed in 1917, the name of Mickle appears over and over again, One of the chapters in this book is the partial printing of one Samuel Mickle's Diary, who recorded an immense amount of important and historical genealogical data. And yet the paths of Joshua Mickel of Friesburg, (1768-1859) and Samuel Mickle of Woodbury, Quaker, (1746-1830) apparently never crossed. At least we have never been able to locate any clue from this diary that has led us to believe otherwise, although Samuel Mickle of Woodbury entertained many, many relatives and friends during his life time. One of the most interesting entries in Samuel Mickle's diary is dated: June 26, 1810: Sold 1,035 acres on Absecon Island to Jas Leeds for $250.00 (Now Atlantic City).

Our history, actually is very brief. Beginning with Joshua Mickel, lately from Holland and with all his possessions in a bundle and traveling by foot arrived in Friesburg. He married Rosannah Stout and settled down on what was known as the late Lewis Hitchner's farm, between Friesburg and Beal's Mill. From this union eight children were born and from the date of their first issue a span of 158 years of genealogical data is herein recorded.

Carolyn Francis Mickel

It is with deep regret that those who waited and hoped to see this book edited and who gave their fullest co-operation have passed on. But their spirit lives on and it is they, who, in the final analysis, have helped to make possible this book. The Memorials given in their name attest that their faith in preserving the names of their ancestors from father to son, and for future generations to come, have not been in vain.
